 - b. in the second half of the Lent Term. This will be the election for the positions of Vice-President, Welfare Officer, Hostels Officer, Green Officer and Access Officer and the Equal Opportunities committee.
 - iii. The incumbent JPC shall select the date for the next election, and the date of the change of office.
 - a. The JPC shall appoint a Returning Officer (RO) for each election, before the Notice of Election is published. The incumbent President shall be the RO except where:
 - I. (S)he is, or is likely to be, seeking re-election or election to any other office.
 - II. In the opinion of the JPC, as confirmed by an internal vote, (s)he is likely to fail to act impartially as RO, in such a way as to obstruct the fair conduct of the election.
 - b. If the incumbent President is not an acceptable RO then the Vice-President shall be RO except where (I) or (II) in this sub-clause apply to him or her. In the excepted case the JPC shall hold an internal vote to select an RO from within the incumbent JPC to whom a. (I) or (II) in this sub-clause are not applicable.
 - c. The RO, once appointed, may not seek election to any office, nor may (s)he vote in the election, nor may (s)he propose or second the nomination of candidates for office.
 - d. The RO shall be responsible for the fair conduct of the elections, in accordance with the regulations laid down in this clause.
 - e. The remaining JPC members to whom a. (I) or (II) in this sub-clause aren't applicable will be appointed as Assistant Returning Officers (AROS) to help the RO in the conduct of the ballot and the counting of votes. AROs may vote but not be candidates in the election and are required to preserve the strictest impartiality when presiding over the ballot.

- iv. All members of the JP are entitled to vote in elections for the JPC. Votes for a representative on the Equal Opportunities Committee should be cast by members who self define as part of the community represented by that representative. All members of the JP must be free and able to vote for any equal opportunities position without challenge.
2. The RO shall publish a Notice of Election, together with a copy of this clause, on the JP notice board, at least one week before the election. They shall also indicate where on the JP notice board, by means of a heading or otherwise, a prominent position of candidates' manifestos may be placed.
3. Any full member of the JP, with the exception of the RO and any AROs that (s)he may appoint, may stand for election to an office on the JPC if proposed and seconded by two members of the JP, and they can be in residence in Cambridge, UK, for the duration of their office. It is highly desirable but not essential that candidates for the Equal Opportunities Committee self define as members of the community that they intend to represent.
4. All candidates must notify the RO of the post for which they intend to stand, either by email or pigeon hole, naming their proposer and their seconder. The RO shall then satisfy himself or herself that the candidates are fully conversant with the regulations governing the election, and the responsibilities of the office being sought, not later than 5 p.m. on the second day before the election. Having notified the RO candidates may pin their manifesto to the JP noticeboard in the position indicated. The manifesto must be not more than one sheet of A4 paper, which should bear a photograph of the candidate and may be either typed or hand-written. All manifestos should be posted in one place, and should be near the ballot box for the full duration of the election.
5. The manifesto, as specified in Clause 13.1 (4), shall be the only form of canvassing, other than spoken canvassing, allowed to any candidate. No other canvassing of any sort or financial expenditure whatsoever shall be permitted to any candidate, or to any person acting on a candidate's behalf, whether or not the candidate be ignorant of such canvassing. If, in the opinion of the RO, such canvassing has taken place, the RO shall disqualify the candidate from the election. The RO may, if definite proof exists that some person has canvassed illegally with the express intent of obtaining the disqualification of a candidate, allow that candidate's nomination to stand.

6. The poll shall be open for at least six hours between 8.30 a.m. and 10 p.m. at the discretion of the RO. Ballot papers shall be obtained from the RO or ARO, by countersigning a list of full members of the JP. Voting shall be by secret ballot and completed papers shall be placed in a box provided. At the discretion of the JP, an internet method of voting may be permitted within the same hours as the ballot box, as long as an equivalent level of security to that of the ballot box is enforced. A system must be in place to ensure only one vote per voter is cast, be it internet or ballot box.
7. No candidate shall stand for more than one post on the full JPC. Candidates standing for the post of Welfare Officer may also stand as a candidate for one position on the Equal Opportunities Committee. The election for the two posts are independent. No candidate may stand for more than one position on the Equal Opportunities Committee.
8. In the election for any post, voters shall be offered the option of requesting the RO to reopen nominations. This is done by including a dummy candidate RON in the list of candidates. In the counting, RON is treated exactly as other candidates. If RON is elected then a bye-election for that post shall be called in accordance with the provisions of Clause 13B.
9. The Single Transferable Vote system shall be used to determine the result of the election as follows:

Voters list the candidates for each post in order of preference on the ballot paper. For each election there is a quota (q) of votes equal to the next integer above $n/2$ where n is the number of votes cast in that election, e.g. q is 51 if n is 100 or 101. A candidate receiving the quota of votes is elected.

The counting of votes is done in a series of rounds. Initially only first preference votes are counted. If no candidate reaches the quota then the candidate with the least number of votes is eliminated, and his ballot papers are transferred to the candidates next in preference on the ballot papers at a value equal to a/b , where a is the eliminated candidate's initial vote tally from the first round, and b the eliminated candidate's total value of papers (including any not listing any further preference). Any papers not giving a further preference are eliminated. A new count is taken, the quota remains the same. This reallocation continues until (a) a candidate reaches the quota in which case (s)he is elected, or (b) only one candidate remains uneliminated, in which case (s)he is elected even if the quota has not been reached. If RON wins the election, then a bye-election shall be held for that post as soon as possible in accordance with Clause 13.2. Where several posts are being voted for, each post shall be counted to completion in turn.

Example: An election for one post with three candidates and RON. 224 votes cast in total so the quota is 113.

Candidate	Round 1	Round 2	Round 3	Round 4
B.L. Zebub	24 (10)	–	–	–
Anne Other	85 8 @ 1.00	93 17 @ 0.91	108.47 12 @ 0.83	118.43
Anne O’Nymus	40 4 @ 1.00	44 (12)	–	–
RON	75 2 @ 1.00	77 15 @ 0.91	90.65 (80)	–

B. L. Zebub is eliminated in the first round and his votes are reallocated. Bracketed figures show no further preference. The ratio is $24/24 = 1.00$
 Anne O’Nymus is eliminated in the second round. The ratio is $40/44 = 0.91$
 No candidate has yet reached quota. RON has 92 papers with a value of 90.65. These are checked and twelve people have put Anne Other as a preference after RON. The ratio is $75/90.65 = 0.83$. Anne Other gets 122 votes with a value of 118.43 and is elected. Note that had the voting been such that Anne Other’s final vote value had been only 111.43 she would still have been elected as the final uneliminated candidate, even though her vote value was less than the quota of 113.

10. The votes shall be counted by the RO and the AROs immediately after the closure of the poll. Any candidate may attend, but may not participate.
11. The RO’s decision on any spoilt ballot papers shall be final, although any candidate present during the counting of votes may see all the papers deemed to be spoilt and raise objections, if there be any, through the procedure detailed in Clause 13.1 (14) below.
12. The names of all newly elected candidates shall be announced in the JP and published as soon as possible on the JP notice board. The ballot papers, sealed in the ballot box, shall be kept for 48 hours after the election, and any candidate may examine them in the presence of the RO during this period.

13. In the event of an objection by a candidate, or at least 10 full members of the JP, to the conduct of the election being submitted to the RO within 48 hours of the election, the RO shall call an Open Meeting as soon as possible, where the objection shall be discussed and the ballot papers, if necessary, examined. If the objection is sustained by a vote at the Open Meeting, the retiring JPC shall call a referendum as soon as is practicable to decide the issue. If the Open Meeting has passed a vote of no confidence in the appointed RO, the meeting shall appoint a new RO.
14. In the event of an election being declared void, the RO shall call a new election as soon as practicable, for which no new nominations shall be allowed.
15. In the event of a tie, a By-election shall be held between those candidates involved only, in accordance with Clause 13.2.

13.2 By-Elections

1. If a vacancy should arise for any of the offices of the JPC, a By-election shall be held.
2. The JPC, whether quorate or not, shall select the date for the By-election within ten days of the vacancy arising, and shall appoint an RO, in accordance with the regulations of Clause 13.1 (1) (iii).
3. The RO shall immediately give notice of a By-election on the JP notice board together with a copy of this Clause. The notice and regulations shall be published at least five days before the By-election.
4. In all other respects, the By-election shall be held in accordance with the regulations of Clause 13.1.
